Doug has extensive experience with high level junior athletics. Not only did he play and coach at Penn State University, his wife coaches the Buckeye softballers. His daughter, Danielle, has won the State Doubles Title two years in a row now, as a freshman and sophomore! But you'd never know he's that competitive when you talk to him. lol

"In combination with our weekly themes and group competitiveness, I truly believe that those kids who have a consistent on-court schedule are the most successful. Just like the story says... slow and steady wins the race."

Dear Parents...

Here are three ways to give your child the best opportunity to reach his/her potential:

1. Consistent and full schedule – It is not necessary to play everyday, however maintaining an engaged and consistent schedule is important. For high school varsity players, I recommend doing junior program 2-3 times per week, 1 private lesson a week, and playing at least one tournament a month.
2. Balance in life – Homework these days is crazy! So allow time to be successful at school, set your sports schedule and stick with it... and make time to relax or have a fun day!
3. It has to be theirs – It's amazing how little progress children make when it's the parents pushing them. It's brilliant and obvious when a child "wants it". Once a person falls in love with tennis, only then does it "get real". As experienced coaches, it's these moments we get excited for!
